True Stewards Are Passionate About Me

In this season of abundance that is opening before you, there is one main key, and it is this key that will keep you. This key will sustain you and this key will strengthen you as you move into each new season in Me. And this key would be: Don't ever lessen in your focus, your passion and your intense need for Me. Stay red-hot in your pursuit of Me, for at all times and in all things, you were made for Me. My earnest desire is to fill you with the fullness that is in Me, and keeping your heart blazing hot for Me is the fire that will take you into these things.

As abundance comes in your advance into Me, it is in Me loving you and you loving Me. Stewardship is the heart I have been building in you, and this beautiful work in you has been producing a holy desire to serve Me and to be true to your love for Me as My steward. My love delights in this holy work in you, and My love delights in putting My resources into your hands through My truth.

Your hands have often been held out in worship and in truth as you have honored Me, knowing that your hands gain nothing for you. It is only by My Spirit's work in you that pure stewardship flows through you. There is a beautiful anointing that comes by My truth that has been increasing in My place of stewardship I have been erecting in you. You will soon walk in the truths I have been unfolding in you.

This key to stewardship is the secret place—just Me and just you—where you love Me and I love you and together we move forward into the holiness of My truth. This place of abundance I bring you into is truly a place of My deep communion with you. This is the keeping place of all that we will do—the place of fellowship with you. Always, always know: True stewardship is a place of fellowship between Me and you. This is the foundation of all that you see and do, and I move from this foundation in My stewardship in you.

It is with deep joy that I begin the release of stewardship in each one I am allowed to move through. It means you have received My love for you, and you have loved Me as I have loved you. It means I have been able to unfold mysteries to you and have been able to mold you and shape you by the working of My Spirit in you. It means a place of fellowship has been built where our joy together has been Me loving you and you loving Me, as I reveal Myself to you and you open your heart to Me. These are the joys a true steward brings Me.

It is through this fellowship, by My Spirit, that your stewardship will be seen, and this is what pleases Me. The stability of true stewards will be seen—they are the ones who are passionate about Me.
