I Love When You Change and Love People Like I Do

For you understand how much the love of God will take care of, for there are many hateful things. You will be able to look at things differently as My love continues to increase, because some of you, you look to people hurtfully and with some spite. When My love increases, you will move by My hand past those places because it will be Me strengthening you within the inner man for the things that are coming. But the more of you who will operate in this, then the more that you free Me to do.

Make no mistake: All the problems you have, and even those worst kinds [of problems] which hurt other people, you know that I love you. I love you regardless of where you come from, regardless of what you are. I love you the way you are. But I love when you change into somebody who loves people like I do.
