

The Lord's Present-Day Speaking

PT100513 – May 13, 2010
Expect My Provision

Your kings are coming. In this transition, don't expect lack—expect provision. Do I not provide in all seasons? Look around at My creation and see that this is so. I am Provider.

You know how to be abased and you know how to abound, and now I will increase the abounding by My grace supplied to you abundantly.

Don't expect lack; expect provision in the transition to the kings' provision. Expect My hand to provide, for I provide in the transition from the old to the new. In My Word you see that My Son was this provision as I ended the old and brought in the new.

Just as He was the provision from the old to the new, so is He now in the hiding place in Him I provided for you.

The kings are coming to you, and in the transition, My provision will be there for you. As you delight yourself in Me, so I do with you. My provision for you is My delight in you.