Stay in My Presence

How can change come unless something takes place that affects change? Am I not your Lord and your God and your Father? Have I not prepared a place in eternity for those who seek Me? Have I not made provision for every human being who will reach out for Me? So don't stop, for you are approaching areas that have very seldom been approached, but when they have been attained, the attainment came with a great harvest of a revival.

For these were common people like you, not those who thought they were great, but common people—common people like you, who carried great hope in their heart that later turned to great faith that turned into great power. So do not stop, nor should you stay the same.

For you seek Me the way I ordained a way for you to seek Me and you will not go down the wrong path. How will you go down the wrong path when I am the One creating the prayer that says you will go down the right path? Stay in My Presence, for along the way gifts are bestowed, along the way mysteries are understood, along the way places in Me can be attained to. You will see, for there have been enough to catch a glimpse of what I have, and they will press into this.

So rejoice and be exceedingly glad, for wildfires of revival you will see before I return.
