

The Lord's Present-Day Speaking

PT110821 - Aug 21, 2011

You Are Going to Be Able to Forgive

Editor's Note: The following was before a prayer line to let go of unforgiveness.

You will find in this [letting go] that as you proceed and do not take steps backward that you will see My hand begin to move for you on an exciting level. So move forward and see if [what] I have said is the truth and that I am faithful to perform that which I promised.

When you forgive those, from a distance, whom you plan on talking with, then you will find that you have strength working in you because you let Me begin to work in you. So when you talk with them, you are not going to be the same—you are going to be able to forgive them and to let them go.