He Is Pleased With the Progress of Things

He said He was quite pleased—not just tonight. He was quite pleased with the progress of things and quite pleased. He said He is pleased that joy—I mean the real thing: taking pleasure in Him, in His Presence, in His grace, when everything in the natural tells you it has won.

Oh no, you haven't. No, and it's not even a "Not yet, you haven't." It's not even any of that.

So that basically was in that interpretation edification. It was [that] He is very pleased to be able to minister and to say some of these things that He is saying now. He is very pleased that you are far enough [along] to hear it.
