

The Lord's Present-Day Speaking

PT110210A – Feb 10, 2011
The Heart Is the Battlefield

The heart is the battlefield for which we contend, and this is the fount where it all pours out.

All this fear, it is nothing. Decisions are My gift to you, just as all your circumstances. Keep your eyes on Me in My love and you will see what you want to see; you will know what it is that you want to know. You will know Me in My gifts to you, and you will know My love in My gifts, for they always reveal My heart.

I love you and My heart is open to you, never closed. We are never apart if you will trust in Me and leave your abilities out of the equation. I am all you need. I am your only hope. I AM the fulfillment of all things, past, present, and future.

Nothing stands between Me and you if you keep your eyes fixed on Me. I AM your hope. I AM your life, for grace flows back and forth between My open heart and your open heart. This is My love for you—a love that is the ocean, and you are the fish. I AM everything to you. Outside of My love, you are a beached whale and your days are numbered. You are a part of Me just as a fish is part of the ocean. My love for you is that we are One—you in Me and I AM in you. You have entered through My Door—My Son—and now we are family; we are One.

There is no fight to be in Me if your eyes are on Me. The easiest way to walk a straight line is to keep your eyes on Me. My Spirit reveals Me to you and you reveal Me to the world. Keep your eyes on Me as I am revealed to you, and everything will pan out. It is not your job to bring these things to pass. It is your job to be a vessel for My grace. I AM your hope, now and forever. Nothing can stand in My way, if you will come to Me.