

The Lord's Present-Day Speaking

PT110313C – Mar 13, 2011

An Ever-Increasing Presence of My Compassion and My Love

He is talking about, there is a hunger that can't be quenched. You try to quench it with many things, [such as] works. But the only thing that will quench this hunger and this thirsting is the peace that comes from an ever-increasing Presence of My compassion and My love.

For many, many walk the path on every level conceivable, and at the end of their path, I bring them home with Me. They are born-again and love Me.

But He said, as He is teaching Me, That these places along the way, where I quench your thirst and satisfy your hunger, you will find [they have] to do more and more with My love, which fuels My compassion, which reaches the world.