A Day Is Coming Soon

Editor's Note: The following was before prayer for healing.

Each time I reach out—for it's My desire to gather you into Myself, as a hen would gather her chicks, and take care of you and shelter you. But My great expectations are in what I am able to do now, [that] I do, but a day is coming soon when the things will manifest themselves here and will change the face of things so drastically that you will see much on that scale take place. So rejoice and be glad for what is.
