I Have Always Been There With the Provision

For many of you, part of your reward will be [to be] able to see what your eyes will see in the future, and as you walk into this place and you look at Me, you will say, "It's even more than I had thought it would be." Yes, and I have made these things available from the time the first person looked up at Me and said, "I need what You have." I have always been there with the provision.

There will be a chain of events that will cause many of you to decide to anchor your feet solidly on the ground, and you will rejoice, because the things that you will see come to pass in the future, you will glory over, for many of you shall see My revival.
