The Battle Has Already Been Won

Don't let your knees get feeble and your legs get weary. Don't let your heart be disheartened or your courage be discouraged. Be strengthened and know: This fight is not yours. Victory has already been given to you. The battle has already been won. Walk—walk with Me and trust Me.

The waves of pressure, of defeat and discouragement that have hit you in wave after wave of discouragement and defeat that are trying to teach you that you are defeated—they are lies. Walk through them. Don't listen to them. Don't receive the emotions of them but walk through them and hold on to what I have already given to you—the victory. The devil and the enemy have already been defeated. Your battle is not with them. Walk towards Me and follow Me.
