Vision—Overcoming Grace

I sensed the love of God in a different way. It was likened to an energy force—pulsating. I knew there were angels and witnesses in the spirit. They were watching as if in awe.

I heard God say, “I am bringing an enduring grace that will accompany peace.” He said those two together equaled endurance.

God said we do not fully understand what the Holy Ghost values—we only had glimpses of love or this grace. I heard God say, “Honor to the overcomer,” and as I looked behind the one who was to speak, I saw many individuals walking. They were war-torn, limping—bandages, crutches, some dragging limbs. I heard God say again, “These are those who would not give up.”

They were following the same path. They represented each one of us and the battles, the wars we have been fighting, and He was saying an overcoming grace we had not yet walked in was coming to us in this conference.
