A Time and a Place for All Things

There is a time and a place for all things. Now is the time, and this is the place. This is the place I have called you to be. This is the time I have called you to be here. You are doing exactly what I called you to do. The calling on your life has not changed. You will complete the call. This is not a detour; it is not a waste of time.

This time right now is part of the journey, and the journey is part of the call. It takes time for you to realize exactly who you are and what I have for you. But you are walking out your calling. This is part of working out your own salvation.

As you continue to trust Me, you will see the opportunities to obey the instructions I have given you in the past. Don't panic. You are not behind. I foresaw all that has happened, and you are on track. Soon you will better understand why all things were necessary to take you where I am sending you. Rest in Me; enjoy your family and take time in this season to enjoy life.

Ephesians 4:16 From whom the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love.

Colossians 3:23 And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men;
