

Pruned to the Core Confessions

Many people bring the glory and the Presence of God with them now. The saturation of His glory that He brought through one, He now has placed upon many.

God has pruned the root back all the way to the core so He can bring it forth as a green tree in a dry and thirsty land.

We are the plantings of the Lord. We are trees of life. We glory in His Presence. It is no longer just one who carries His Presence, but we are many plantings that have come into the fullness of what we have been planted for.

In this house not a seat is empty. Many stand against the walls. Many crowd the altars. The services are unlike any we have seen before. Sound doctrine is continuing to be laid, and the training seems tough at times. But on the other side of the training is an equal outpouring of His glory and His Presence – So strong that we are not able to stand in the house.

Not one leads, many lead, because of the Presence He has placed upon them and because of what they are doing in this time of pruning. In one part of this physical house, while some are being healed, others in another part of the auditorium are being delivered and set free. His glory falls: His Presence comes, and all will be kept in order in these last days.

A Presence and a sweeping of His Presence is in this house. This season of pruning has been just as valuable as any season we thought was glorious in the past. That which has seemed like a dry and thirsty land has become a river of life. That which was pruned back in the Spirit, and even in numeric quantity, has changed. We rejoice that we did not resist the pruning, but stepped into it.
